

Why not do both, the requirement could be phased in over time as equipment is upgraded. I don't have any way to monitor 406 but can help identify 121.5 calls. It would be a safety issue and really hurt GA as these new devices are too expensive for older aircraft. With the high price of fuel and maintenance this is just one more thing that tries to kill GA.